

THE CONSULTATIVE
COUNCIL OF JEWISH ORGANISATIONS

The Clemens Nathan Research Centre
in association with the Consultative Council of Jewish Organisations and the Anglo-Jewish Association is delighted to invite you to a lecture given by

Mr Rolf Ekéus

How to Prevent Ethnic and Religious Conflict

The Vote of Thanks will be given by Leif Holmström, Director of the Raoul Wallenberg Institute at Lund University, Sweden.

Rolf Ekéus is the former expert on weapons of mass destruction at the United Nations and was executive chairman of the United Nations Special Commission (UNSCOM) on Iraq from 1991 to 1997. Until 2007 he was the High Commissioner on National Minorities of the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) and was Swedish ambassador to the United States from 1997 to 2000. He is currently Chairman of the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute.

Following the lecture the Chairman of the CCJO, Clemens Nathan, will present Mr Ekéus with the René Cassin medal in recognition of his work to promote human rights.
